On June 14th, all WCI affiliate Member Clubs were represented, and attended the second virtual Board of Directors 2021 meeting entitled, 'Women, Diversity, and Leadership.' It would be the final, official duty of outgoing WCI President, Kim Riedel, and the welcoming of new, incoming President, Linda Anderson. After the welcome remarks, introductions of all Board of Directors were made, including the welcoming of our special guests and new Board of Directors. The organization's business was conducted, club introductions were made, a U.N. presentation shared, a leadership workshop given lead by Diversity Strategist, Dr. Nicola Byok of Hamburg, Germany, concluding with an historic swearing-in of new WCI President as part of the virtual program.

The second, successful annual Board of Directors Meeting demonstrated WCI's commitment to executing its mission of facilitating and connecting global member clubs, all while adopting an agile and technology-based platform. In so doing, the organization has continued its important work of supporting and connecting its members regardless of where they are located. The event also highlighted WCI's successful transition to a digital organization, one that allows all of its international members meaningful opportunities to interact with member clubs throughout the world, to learn and share with one another on the basis of friendship, understanding, and education.
